

RARE TEAPOT DESIGNED AS A JAPANESE BANTAM COCK

Meissen, ca. 1730. Model by J. G. Kirchner, the painting later, probably ca. 1735.

On a flat base, designed as a vine leaf with a green rim. The curved tail feathers cover an open back for pouring in the tea, which is served from the beak, in which the cock holds a blue kernel. The plumage is naturalistically staffed in dark brown, russet, and green over purple, the comb and the beak are painted red. The colorful kernels are painted in red, yellow and blue. Blue caduceus mark on the unglazed bottom.

H 15 cm, L 19 cm.
