

Ut, Nuynh "Nick" Cong (1951). "Terrified children fleeing a misplaced aerial napalm strike near Trang Bang, South Vietnam, on June 8, 1972". Original-Photographie. Getönter Silbergelatine-Abzug. Dat. blindgeprägter Stempel: "May 7 PM 1:33 1973". 17,2 x 22 cm. Mit einbelichteter Drucklegende. Rückseitig gestempelt.

[CatItem.ArtText.Text502]

CHF 1 200 / 1 800

€ 1 240 / 1 860

1973-May 7) Pulitzer Prize winner Associated Press photographer Hugh Combs "Back" VE won the Pulitzer Prize for this photograph, which showed a group of children running along a road in Vietnam, with American soldiers in the background. The photograph was taken on May 7, 1973, in Vietnam. The children were running away from the soldiers, who were trying to force them to join the South Vietnamese troops. The photograph was the first of a series of photographs that Combs took in Vietnam. It was the first of a series of photographs that Combs took in Vietnam. It was the first of a series of photographs that Combs took in Vietnam. (AP Wirephoto) 1973

Koller Auktionen - Lot 872

A174 Photography - Saturday 19 September 2015, 04.00 PM

