fitted with the movement. The legendary caliber 33.3 was also used by Omega in their chronographs. The Tissot on offer impresses with its exceptionally good condition: the dial with the extremely rare respiration scale has a nice and even patina. The hands are all original. The case still has its original edges and surfaces and was probably rarely worn and never polished. Completing this timepiece is the superbly preserved chronograph movement. We would like to thank Tissot SA for their research.
